

VOLUNTEER SHOWCASE

January 2013, Montana

Giving Back to Her Community Through the NRCS Earth Team Program

Mena Limpy-Goings' natural talent to create order out of chaos has made staff at the Billings Field Office more efficient. Her field duties as an Earth Team Volunteer include photography and organization of digital images, which is useful for surveying, note taking, and of course, learning all that NRCS can do.

Mena began volunteering in the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) Billings Field Office in March 2012. Her title of Farm Bill Assistant does not do justice to all she has accomplished.

With computer access, Mena has the ability to learn web based conservation planning tools. A few of the many duties she performs are: entering inventory data, scanning documents and performing maintenance on office equipment.

Mena's career goal is to work professionally in the conservation of natural resources. A great fit indeed! Mena has a Bachelor of Science in Resource Conservation from the University of Montana. She is committed to learning, and is volunteering 3-4 days each week.

The Earth Team is the volunteer component of the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS), a USDA agency. For more about NRCS and the Earth Team, visit www.usda.nrcs.gov.

If you are interested in volunteering, call (888) 526-3227 or visit your local NRCS office to learn about volunteer opportunities.